2.2 School managers should make all staff aware of this advice note and the expectations of staff conduct related to social networking. For new staff this should form part of their induction.

3.0 Social Networking Sites / Applications

3.1 Social networking applications include, but are not limited to: Blogs, Online discussion forums, Collaborative spaces, Media sharing services, 'Microblogging' applications. Examples include Twitter, Facebook, MSN, You Tube.

4.0 Staff Conduct

- 4.1 St Paul's Code of Conduct for schools (paragraph 4.1) states "In general terms, the school expects that the conduct of its employees is such that no justifiable complaint can be made by parents, pupils, colleagues, Governors, other bodies or agencies or members of the community in relation to conduct and behaviour of school staff." This principle applies to the use of social networking sites.
- 4.2 The way in which school staff present and conduct themselves on social networking sites can have an impact on the public perception of the school and influence the way in which those staff members are perceived by pupils and parents of the school. In their use of social networking sites, staff should be aware that their online behaviour could affect their professional standing, dignity and perception of their integrity.
- 4.3 It is recommended that school staff take adequate precautions when using social networking sites/applications, both in vetting material that could be connected to them (through their own profile and information added about them) and through the use of appropriate security settings.
- 4.4 School employees should not be "friends" with pupils on social networking sites as this could be viewed as a safeguarding issue.
- 4.5 It is recommended that management and school staff do not identify their school on social networking sites as this could directly link their behaviour outside of work with the reputation of the school.
- 4.6 It is recommended that the school identifies a member of their senior leadership team from whom staff can seek advice on their personal use of social networking sites and/or report concerns about the inappropriate use of a social networking site/application by another member of staff.
- 4.7 Where schools use email and learning platforms to communicate with pupils, e.g. about homework, the Headteacher should set out local guidance around the use of these applications for both pupils and staff.
- 4.8 Where pupils behave inappropriately with staff this should be reported to a member of the senior leadership team and dealt with through the school's pupil disciplinary process.
