

When his mother tumbled down a ravine during a terrifying pitch-black mountain top ordeal, 10-year-old Sebastian Williams showed his incredible cool by calmly calling for help and keeping her alive.

Tony Hudgell, who had to have both his legs amputated in 2017 as a result of abuse suffered at the hands of his birth parents, captured the hearts of tens of thousands of people when he completed a heroic walking challenge this summer.

He set out to raise £500 for the hospital that saved his life by walking 10km in 30 days on his prosthetic legs, but ended up raising more than £1 million.

Rashford has been given a special recognition award for his ongoing campaigning to help feed vulnerable children, after his work forced a Government U-turn on free school meals in England this summer.

His campaign to extend provision over the holidays continues, with paediatricians, councils and businesses across the country backing him and helping out.

The 22-year-old striker accepted his award on behalf of “those who step up without the need for thanks and accolades”.

He said: “I am extremely humbled but I’d like to think that I am receiving this award on behalf of all of the incredible people who have selflessly stepped up to support their communities during this pandemic.

“I have met many of them and I am no more deserving than them.

Ricky Prince, 40, had taken a slightly different route on his usual lunchtime walk around the lake in Green Park when he came across a stranger who had suffered a medical episode .

Ricky, who works in Reading, Berkshire , had completed a refresher course in first aid shortly before the incident in July, and immediately began to perform CPR.

When he won the Pride of Reading award in 2019, Ricky said: "I didn't expect to be winning today, there are so many amazing people here."

Neveah Small

The schoolgirl has taken part in fundraising efforts for a number of charities that are important to her, even flying out to Morocco to support children in an orphanage there.

Neveah has hypermobility, meaning that her joints easily dislocate, leading to painful, regular trips to A&E.

Despite her struggles, she always puts others first, something which led to many nominations in this year's Young Person of the Year category.
